New Skirt For 1866.

The Great Invention of the Age in HOOP SKIRTS.

J. W. BRADLEY'S New Patent DUPLEX ELLIPTIC (or double) SPRING SKIRT.

THIS INVENTION consists of DUPLEX (or two) ELLIPTIC PURE REFINED STEEL SPRINGS, ingeniously braided tightly and firmly together, edge to edge, making the toughest, most flexible, elastic and durable SPRING ever used. They seldom bend or break, like the Single Spring, and consequently preserve their perfect and beautiful Shape more than twice as long as any single spring skirt that ever has or can be made.

The wonderful flexibility and great comfort experienced particularly in all crowded Assemblies, Operas, Carriages, Railroad Cars, Church Pews, Arm Chairs, for Promenade and House Dress, as the Skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a Silk or Muslin Dress.

A Lady having Enjoyed the Pleasure, Comfort and Great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For Children, Misses and Young Ladies they are superior to all others.

The Hoops are covered with 2 ply double twisted thread and will wear twice as long as the single yarn covering which is used on all Single Hoop Skirts. The three bottom rods on every Skirt are also Double Steel, and twice or double covered to prevent the covering from wearing off the rods when dragging down stairs, stone steps etc, etc, which they are constantly subject to when in use.

All are made of the new and elegant Corded Tapes, and are the best quality in every part, giving to the wearer the most graceful and perfect Shape possible, and are unquestionably the lightest, most desirable, comfortable and economical Skirt ever made.

WEST BRADLEY & CARY, PROPRIETORS of the Invention, and SOLE MANUFACTURERS, 97 CHAMBERS, 79 & 81 READE STREETS New York.

For sale in all first-class stores in this City, and throughout the United States and Canada, Havana de Cuba, Mexico, South America and the West Indies.

Late Papers.

LATE Richmond and New York, papers are kept for sale at the post-office.

Salisbury Dec. 11th 1865. tfd-169.

To the Citizens of North-Carolina.

The termination of a sanguinary contest, which for the past four years has presented an impassable barrier to all social or commercial intercourse between the two great sections of our country, having at length happily cleared away all obstacles to a removal of those relations which formerly bound us together in a fraternal union, I take the earliest opportunity afforded me by this auspicious event, to greet my Southern friends, and to solicit from them a renewal of that extensive business connection which for a quarter of a century has been uninterrupted save by the great public calamity to which I have adverted.

It is scarcely necessary, on the threshold of a business [illegible] to [illegible] repeat the warning so often given to my friends,—to beware of all those spurious and deleterious compounds which, under the specious and false titles of Imported Wines, Brandies, Holland Gin, Liquors, &c., have been equally destructive to the health of our citizens as prejudicial to the interests of the legitimate Importer.

Many years of my past life have been expended in an open and candid attempt to expose these wholesale frauds; no time nor expense has been spared to accomplish this salutary purpose, and to place before my friends and the public generally, at the lowest possible market price, and in such quantities as might suit their convenience, a truly genuine imported article.

Twenty-five years' business transaction with the largest and most respectable exporting houses in France and Great Britian have afforded me unsurpassed facilities for supplying our home market with Wines, Liquors, and Liqmures of the best and most approved brands in Europe, in addition to my own distillery in Holland for the manufacture of the "Schiedam Schnapps."

The latter, so long tested and approved by the medical Faculties of the United States, West Indies and South America as an invaluable Therapeutic, a wholesome, pleasalt, and perfectly safe beverage in all climates and during all seasons, quickly excited the cupidity of the home manufacturers and venders of a spurious article under the same name.

I trust that I have, after much toil and expense, surrounded all my importations with safeguards and directions which with ordinary circumspection will inshure their delivery, as I receive them from Europe, to all my customers.

I would however, recommend in all cases where it is possible, that orders be sent direct to my Depot. 22 Beaver Street, New York, or that purchases be made of my accredited agents.

In addition to a large stock of Wines, Brandies &c. in wood, I have a considerable supply of old tried foreign wines, embraceing vintages of many past years, bottled up before the commencement of the war, which I can especialy recommended to all connaisseurs of these rare luxuries.

In conclusion, I would especially call the earley attention of my Southern customers to the advantage to be derived by transmitting their orders without loss of time, of time, or calling personally at the Depot, in order to inshure the fulfilment of their favors from the present large and well selected assortment.

OLD PREJUDICES.

Time was when a gentleman thought it absolutely necessary to his dignity and pride of family, to educate his sons for a profession or learned profession. Trade, [illegible] as degrading. Aristocratic lips never pronounced the word "[illegible]," except with disdain. We allude to a former era in our own country—when the younger sons of noble families settled portions of Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina. This class of English gentry formed the substratum of Southern aristocracy. For a long time, by intermarriage, the blood was kept pure, but exceptions were occasionally made, and in course of time it was often found necessary to "sink the shop." But the idea of bringing up their sons to the learned professions clung to them, and it was not until poverty made labor necessary to this class, that within the last few years, a deviation from the old beaten path has been made in the direction of the higher branches of mechanics. The result of this War should, in the matter under consideration, produce a thorough and radical reform.—Let children be taught from their earliest childhood that the labor of the hands is as honorable as the labor of the mind; that in this free Republic, there should be no monopoly of the learned professions, but that each parent should put his child to the trade, business or profession to which he is best fitted. Don't send a boy to the Bar to fail; and don't act upon your own judgment concerning the disposition of your children; take the advice and opinion of third persons; we have frequently seen men utterly fail in one business, who might have eminently succeeded in some other. Study the characteristics as well as the mere ability of your children; if your friends think that they would not excel in the learned professions—in high arts—in the higher branches of scientific pursuits, then put them to a trade or to "tearing rags."—What is the secret of England's prosperity and wealth? Her trades flourish.—What is it of the New England States? Their trades flourish. Let us adopt a liberal system of white apprenticeship, and then let us surrender at once and forever those false and baneful ideas we have, or may have, touching manual labor. Let us give the mechanic a chance to elevate himself socially; let him understand distinctly that it is not only true that "quisque suæ fortunæ faber," but thar the path to social distinction is alike open, and that he will certainly be received and accepted in the first circles as an equal, after he has shown himself to be a moral and virtuous if not an intellectual and learned man.

The next step towards our greatness as a nation, is to put such of your sons as exhibit mechanical talent in the work shop. Let parents choose for their children those pursuits best adapted to the development of their native powers. If he exhibits deculiar talent, cultivate and educate that talent. If he exhibits extraordinary musical genius, let him make music his vocation. So of painting, &c. But don't make an M. D. out of him because his father happened to have been a succes-ful leech, nor attempt to make a lawyer out of him decause his great grand papa was famous at the Bar. It takes a mind of the first calibre for the Bar, and we have frequently seen the attempt tried to "make a silk purse out of a sow's ear," but never saw it succeed yet. To make a good lawyer, a man should be qualified by nature to excel in anything else, and, in fact, he should almost be excellent in all things. There is not one man in ten thousand fit to be called to the Bar. Bro. Cole, of the Gazette, is an illustration; he can write half a dozen pages of fools cap as fast as pen can fly over paper, conveying one idea to one and another idea diverso intuitu to another, and that, too, without grammatical inaccuracy or rhetorical blunder. But old-time notions, founded upon the idea of things which have passed or are rapidly passing away, must be exploded, and the track must be cleared for that new and staunch locomotive called REFORM.

JUST AS WE PREDICTED.

The House has refused by the decided vote of 132 to 35 to repeal or modify the "test oath." What is the status now of the members elect?

STATE RIGHTS AND THE RESOLUTIONS OF '98-99.

We are so persuasively invoked to surrender these respectable old articles of Faith, that we fear that we can hold out little longer. It is some comfort, however, to know that the Jacobins will have to give them up, likewise, and, like his High Mightiness quoting Scripture, they could, when it suited them, speak as largely as the best of us in favor of these antiques.

The Commercial Enquirer shows the position of Wilson and Wade on these points as follows:

Senator Henry Wilson's record on this subject is clear and emphatic. In a letter he wrote February 19, 1855, to Vespasian Ellis, he said:

"I fully recognize the doctrine of State Rights in its application to slavery as well as to any other matters of public concern. The Virginia and Kentucky Resolutions of 1798, in the main, as I think, correctly set forth that doctrine."

In a debate in the United States Senate on a bill to protect officers acting under authority of the United States, Februar. 23, 1855, (see app. Globe, vol. 31, 2d sess., 33 Cong., page 233,) Mr. Wilson said:

"I recognize the doctrine of State rights in its application to slavery as well as to other matters of public concern. I will stand side by side with my Democratic friends in vindication of the Virginia and Kentucky Resolutions of 1798-99, which they have endorsed."

Senator Ben Wade, of Ohio, in the same debate, (see same book, page 213), said:

"I am one of those who at all times believe in the wisdom, the constitutionality, and the propriety of the Virginia and Kentucky Resolutions of 1798-99. I ground myself upon these resolutions, and standing upon them I denounce this bill as a violation not only of the spirit of these resolutions, but as an attempt to trample upon the rights of the States"

Again, at page 214, he says:

"Who is to be the judge of the violations of the Constitution of the U. States by the enactment of a law? Who is the final arbiter, the General Government or the States in their sovereignty? Why, sirs, to yield that point is to yield up all the rights of the States and to consolidate this Government into a general despotism.

Again, one of these Senators said:

Legislatures everywhere are preparing for a legal and constitutional resistance. Aye, sirs, the State of Wisconsin has taught you a lesson, and it is only an incipient one. * * * * I tell the Senator that my State believed it unconstitutional, and that under the old Virginia and Kentucky Resolutions a State must not only be judge of that, but of the remedy in such a case."

In the subsequent Congress Senator Ben Wade made another well studied and carefully prepared speech, in the course of which he said:

"But Southern gentlemen stand here, and, in almost all of their speeches, speak of the dissolution of the Union as an event of every argument, as though it were a peculiar condescension on their part that they permitted the Union to stand at all. If they do not feel interested in upholding this Union—if it really trenches on their rights—if it endangers their institutions to such an extent that they can not feel secure under it—if their interests are violently assailed by means of the Union—I am not one of those who expect that they will long continue under it. I am not one of those who would ask them to continue in such a Union. It would be doing violence to the platform of the PARTY to which I belong. We have adopted the old Declaration of Independence as the basis of our political movement, which declares that any people, when their Government ceases to protect their rights, when it is so subverted from the true purposes of government as to oppress them, have the right to recur to fundamental principles, and, if need be, to DESTROY the Government under which they live, and to erect on its ruins another more conducive to their welfare. I HOLD THAT THEY HAVE THIS RIGHT. I will not blame any people for exercising it, whenever THEY think the contingency has come. I certainly shall be the advocate of that same doctrine whenever I find that the principles of this Government have become so oppressive to the section to which I belong, that free people ought not longer to endure it. You will not then find ME backwards in being the advocate of DISUNION; but that contingency never having come, I have never yet opened my mouth in opposition to the Union. I never entertained a thought disloyal to this Union. But I say, for Heaven's sake, act, not talk. I am tired of this eternal din of "dissolution of the Union" which is brought up on all occasions, and thrust into our faces, as though we, of the North, had some peculiar reasons for maintaining the Union that the Southern States have not. I hope the Union will continue forever. I believe it may continue forever. I see nothing at present which I think should dissolve it; but if the gentlemen see it, I say again that they have the interest in maintaining this Union, in my judgment, that we of the North have. If they think they have not, be it so. You cannot forcibly hold men in this Union; for the attempt to do so, it seems to me, would subvert the first principles of the of the Government under which we live.

An examination of the Congressional debates during that period, as well as the political history of the New England and some of the North-western States, will show not only Mr. Chase, but Sumner, and other prominent leaders of the present Republican party, were advocates of the right and duty of State resistance, claiming the right of a State to judge of the constitutionality of Federal laws, and if they believed them to be unconstitutional, the duty of resisting their execution in whatever mode the State in its judgment might decide upon. Mr. Seward was too cunning to put his opinions in too plain language, but the debates of Congress show that he gave aid and encouragement to the State resistence sentiments of Wade, Wilson and Chase in the debates referred to. Wilson and the Massachusetts Legislature, and all the Northern Legislatures, then under Abolition influence, advocated and accomplished nullification, while Ben Wade, by speech and otherwise, endeavored to organize armed resistance to Federal authority in the State of Ohio.

These men now, for base party ends, would, in the language of Ben Wade, "trample upon the rights of the State." [illegible] up all the rights of the States, and consolidate this Government into a general despotism."

North Carolina Legislature

SENATE.

SATURDAY, Dec. 16, 1865.

The journal having been read, a message was received from the House announcing that they had concurred in the Senate amendment to the bill "for the relief of the holders of State bonds issued since May 20, 1861," etc.

Mr. Howard, from the Committee on the Judiciary, reported a bill to decrease the expenses of sheriffs' returns. Provides that sheriffs, where their returns do not exceed five hundred dollars, can refund the money collected under a late ordinance of the Convention, by members of the Legislature, to Raleigh. The bill passed its several readings and was ordered to be engrossed.

Mr. Jones of Columbus, from the Committee on Internal Improvements, reported back a bill to amend the charter of the Western North [illegible] Railroad, with recommendation that it be postponed until the first Monday in February next.

The following engrossed bill was then read, as follows:

A Bill to declare valid certain elections since May 20, 1861.

WHEREAS, Doubts may exist as to the validity of appointments made and other acts done at the several sessions of the General Assembly held in the State since the 29th day of May, 1861, and whether such are within the terms of the ordinance of the Convention, ratified the 18th day of October, A. D. 1865, entitled "An ordinance declaring what laws and ordinances are in force, and for other purposes;" now, in order to the removal of such doubts,

Be it enacted, by the General Assembly of the State of North Carolina, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, as follows:

1st, That all appointments and elections made, and other acts done by any General Assembly, not inconsistent with the Constitution of this State and of the United States, and the obligation of the citizens of the State to the Government of the United States, are hereby declared to be valid to the same extent and in like manner as if no question had been made of the lawful authority of such General Assembly.

2d. That this act shall be in force from its ratification.

Mr. Howard moved to suspend the rules and place the bill upon its several readings, which was concurred in, and the bill passed its second reading.

It being read the third time, Mr. [illegible] of Wake, moved to refer it to the Committee on the Judicary, and it was not adopted.

At this time upon a motion made by Mr. Warren to adjourn, no quorum voting, Mr. Ferebee moved a call of the roll, and twenty-seven Senators were found to be absent.

The rest of the session, untill four and a half o'clock, was consumed in attempting to get a quorum of the Senate, which failing, Mr. Howard said that he for one would not delay legislation further as important bills had yet to be ratified.

Mr. Eure said that he and those Senators who had remained in the chamber ready and anxious to transact business were in no way responsible for the state of affairs, but those Senators who had voluntarily absented themselves were responsible, not only to their constituents, but to the people of the whole State for their action to-day. The Senate without a quorum being present, adjourned until Monday morning at 6 o'clock.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

SATURDAY, Dec. 16, 1865.

A message was received from the Senate transmitting a report from the Committee on Asylum for the deaf and dumb and blind, with a proposition to print. The House concurred.

Also an engrossed resolution touching the amendment to the Constitution of the United States, ratified at this session of the General Assembly, known as the thirteenth article. [This resolution has been published heretofore in connection with the Senate proceedings.]

Mr. Blackmer opposed the resolution. He thought it unwise to pass it. We should act," he said, "with an eye to our own interests, and the adoption of the construction of the Constitutional amendment, embodied in the resolution, would do us incalculable damage.

Mr. Jenkins of Warren, regarded the resolution as being merely a contemporaneous expression of opinion. He could not see how its passage could do any harm, and it might be of service to us hereafter.

Messrs. Sharpe and Waugh opposed the resolution: The latter moved that it be laid on the table.

On this question the yeas and nays were ordered, and the House refused to lay on the table.

Yeas 27; nays, 51.

Mr. McKay moved to amend the resolution by adding after the words, "we have accepted and ratified the said amendment, in the sense given to it by the Hon. William H. Seward, Secretary of State of the United States," the words, "and in accordance with the reconstruction policy of President Johnson."

Messrs. Jenkins of Warren, and Smith of Hertford opposed the amendment.

The question recurring, the yeas and nays were ordered, and the amendment was rejected. Yeas 33, nays 41.

The question recurring on the passage of the resolution, the yeas and nays were ordered, on motion of Mr. Kenan.

The resolution was adopted. Yeas 55, nays 25.

Mr. McDonald introduced a resolution to request General Ruger to release Benjamin Robinson of Cumberland county, who had been arrested by military order, which was laid upon the table on motion of Mr. Blackmer.

Mr. York, by leave, introduced a resolution of inquiry as to the propriety of modifying the tax on spirituous liquors distilled in the State. Referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. Page, by leave, a bill to increase the tax on spirituous liquors distilled from grain. Referred to the Finance Committee.

The engrossed bill with regard to the election of Clerks and Sheriffs, reported this morning from the Judiciary committee, passed its several readings under a suspension of the rules. [Provides that the successors of the clerks recently elected, be elected on the first Thursday in August 1868, and that the successors of the recently elected Sheriffs be elected on the 1st Thursday in August, 1868.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

HALF-PAST THREE O'CLOCK.

An engrossed bill to decrease the expense of Sheriff's returns. Passed its second and third readings under a suspension of the rules.

The House then adjourned until Monday morning four o'clock.

MONDAY, Dec. 18.

Two Houses met at 4 o'clock, a. m., pursuant to adjournment.

In the Senate nothing was done.

In the House of Commons, two or three bills were ratified.

Both Houses adjourned to meet again, pursuant to the joint order, on the first Monday of February next.

THE MURDER OF FORT.

A young man by the name of Joseph Sugg, who has been engaged recently in driving an ambulance, and whose father is a resident of the city, was arrested yesterday afternoon, on suspicion of being the murderer of Mr. Wm. Fort, an account of whose assassination was given in Monday's Standard. The facts are very strong against him. Suspicion was directed toward Sugg which lead to his arrest, when a pistol was found about his person, identified as having belonged to Mr. Fort, and which he had with him when he was murdered. He was taken before Mayor Harrison for examination, and being asked how he came in possession of the pistol, said he got it from a soldier, on the railroad, last Saturday night, and gave the name of Cas. Pollard as being present when he obtained it. Pollard was sent for, but instead of corroborating the statement, said he saw Sugg with the pistol and asked him where he got it, and that Sugg said he got it at the corner of Fisher's lot, on Saturday night. He asked him what he gave for it, and Sugg said he gave nothing for it, that he "knocked it down." The Mayor committed him to answer an indictment for murder.

Sugg is a youth about nineteen years of age, short, but very stout built, and of a rough exterior. It is likely this arrest may lead to further developements in regard to the crimes that have been committed here so frequently of late.—Raleigh Standard.

RATHER FAST.

We observe that Mr. Jenkins, of Warren, has submitted a Report to the House of Commons from the Joint committee on Railroads, which Report contains a resolution directing the Attorney General of the State to "institute proceedings immediately" in a certain case.

Without intimating any opinion in the case referred to, we think it proper to add that there is no Attorney General of the State at present, but only a Provisional Attorney General. The Railroads of the State and all other corporations, are at present organized provisionally, and are under the control of the Provisional Governor. Propositions to investigate the condition of these Roads, or as to any alleged abuses in them, should be made to the Provisional Governor. It must be borne in mind that the State is not yet back in the Union, and that the powers originally conferred on the Provisional Governor by the President have not been diminished.—These powers, we have no hesitation in saying, will be exercised hereafer as heretofore by the Provisional Governor for the good of the State, until he is relieved from his duties by the order of the Pre-ident.

Congressional.

Washington, Dec. 18.—In the Senate this morning, Mr. Wilson, of Mass., offered a resolution providing for the appointment of an examining board to relieve officers of the regular army who have not rendered meritorious service in the late war, the vacancies thereby created to be supplied by appointments from regular, veteran, reserve and volunteer forces.

A resolution was introduced proposing that Congress listen, on the 12th of next February, to an address from Hon. Edwin M. Stanton, on the late President Lincoln, and that President Johnson, the Cabinet, foreign Ministers, and officers of the army and navy who have been the recipients of thanks from Congress, be invited to be present.

The House of Representatives went into committee of the whole on the President's message, when Mr. Stevens, of Pa., made a speech, the chief points of which were to give freedmen the rights recognized by the declaration of independence and to place the South in a territorial condition, with a view to the subsequent admission of the insurrectionary districts of free States.

Washington, Dec. 19.—A message was sent to the Senate by the President to-day in relation to the condition of affairs in the South, in which he says:

"From all information in my possession, and from that which I have recently derived from the most reliable authority, I am induced to cherish the belief that sectional animosity is surely and rapidly merging itself into a spirit of nationality, and that representation connected with a properly adjusted system of taxation will result in a harmonious restoration of the relations of the states to the National Union.

The President also furnished a communication from Lt. Gen. Grant, in which that officer says he had free conversation with the people of the South during his recent tour, and satisfied they have accepted the present situation of affairs in good faith. He also says there is such unusual acquiescence in the authority of the government throughout the country, visited by him, that the mere presence of a military force without regard to numbers is sufficient to maintain order. He thinks the good of the country and economy requires that the force should be exclusively of white troops.

For then I think the borrower may
Be pressed for food and rent.
And in that book we all should heed,
Which says the lender shall be blest,
As sure as I have eyes to read
It does not say "take interest."

I do not like to hear him pray
On bended knee about an hour,
For grace to spend aright the day,
Who knows his neighbor has no flour;
I'd rather see him go to mill
And buy the luckless brother bread,
And see his children eat their fill,
And laugh beneath their humble shed.

I do not like to hear him pray
"Let blessings on the widow be!"
Who never seeks her home to stay,
"If want o'ertakes you come to me."
I hate the prayer, so loud and long,
That's offered for the orphan's weal,
By him who sees him crushed by wrong,
And only with the lips doth feel.

I do not like to hear him pray,
With jewelled ear and silken dress,
Whose washerwoman toils all day,
And then is asked "to work for less."
Such pious shavers I despise;
With folded hands and face demure,
They lift to Heaven their "angel eyes,"
Then steal the earnings of the poor!

I do not like such soulless prayers;
If wrong I hope to be forgiven;
No angel's wing them upward bears—
They're lost a million miles from Heaven.
I cannot like long prayers to hear,
And studied, from the lips depart;
Our father bends a ready ear,
Let words be few—He hears the heart.

VIRGINIA.

The Richmond Whig of Monday thus expresses itself in regard to the Virginia and other Southern members of Congress:

The members of Congress sent from this State, as, indeed, from the South generally, appear thus far to have acted with that dignity and decorum due to the occasion. * * * * It is gratifying to witness the calm and dignified course of our representatives elect, and to perceive that they take a sensible view of their duties. To no contest for seats should they be a party. Such a contest, if engaged in by them, would necessarily be attended by incidents of an acrimonious character, and would tend rather to exasperate opposition and inflame resentment than enlist kindly influences.—Whatever their rights may be under the Constitution and in the President's contemplation, they, in point of fact, stand before Congress in the attitude of candidates, and by the votes of the members of Congress will their several claims be decided. They should calmly await the issue of the resolution offered by Mr. Stevens and passed by the House of Representatives.

THE PRESIDENT'S AND GEN. GRANT'S OPINION OF THE SOUTH.—Our readers will be highly gratified with the views presented to Congress by the President of the state of feeling in the South, and the expression of his liberal sentiments in regard to the course to be pursued towards the Southern States. His views are confirmed by Gen. Grant. The General reiterates the views he expressed while here, and sustains the positions we have contended for in regard to the loyalty of the Southern people.

PROCLAMATION.

By W. W. Holden, Provisional Governor of North Carolina.

WHEREAS, IT HAS BEEN REPRESENTED to me that there is an urgent necessity in many of the Counties of this State, that funds should be raised by taxation for the support of the poor: Now, therefore, I, W. W. Holden, Provisional Governor of the State of North Carolina, by virtue of the power vested in me, do hereby proclaim and declare—

That a majority of the Provisional Justices of the Peace in any County in this State are hereby empowered and authorized to impose such a tax as in their judgment may be indispensable to the support of the poor; said tax to be levied, collected, and accounted for, and used in accordance with the provisions of chapters 28 and 87, Revised Code of North Carolina.

Provisional officers whose duty it is to execute the orders of the Provisional Justices, are hereby commanded to be prompt in the performance of their duty under this proclamation.

Done at our City of Raleigh, on the 9th day of December one thousand [L. S.] eight hundred and sixty-five, and in the year of the independence of the United States the 90th.

W. W. HOLDEN. Prov. Gov.

By the Governor:
W. R. RICHARDSON, Private Sec'y.

LOCAL.

NATIONAL REPUTATION.

A mother called her child of two years, the other day, "sweet," to which the youngster promptly replied, "paed out." The advice of such old literary foguies as Johnston, Addison and others, as well as their writings, have gone out of vogue. They are too slow for this age. It is said that Goldsmith took six weeks to every two lines of his incomparable "Hermit," and similar anecdotes are related of other distinguished authors. We trow that if Editors were to pursue a like course, they would hardly gain a national reputation. We think we could give a recipe better suited to our practical age, and following the example of Bro. Cole, we give it in verse:

Iffe thou wishe to gayne renoune,
And have successe, thy effort croune,
Blow thy trumpette, loude and shrille,
And iffe none heede, blow onn, stille,
Blow itte longe, blow itte loude
Tille alle shalle hear thee inne the crowde.
Blow alle the while, and blow stronge,
Tille everie manne in everie thronge,
Shalle curse thy trumpette blackke and blue,
Tired atte lastte, they takke the cue
To quitte the horriddee noise he makkes,
They givve himme pies and ale and cakkes,
And to ridde themselves of such a muffe
They writte himme a firstteratte spankkingge puffe,
No suchhe monne wass Hudibras,
For he welle knewe he was an asse.

A GOOD OFFICER.

The city authorities are fortunate in having secured the services of so competent and efficient a policeman as Mr. William P. Coon. We learn that he arrested two negroes on yesterday, and having satisfied himself that they had stolen two horses, found out their whereabouts, and succeeded in re-taking them.

FOR SALE.

I OFFER for sale a small Tract of Land situated on the N. C R. R, 2½ miles South of Salisbury. This Tract contains about 300 acres, more or less, 60 of which has been recently clared and is fresh, and new, and exceedingly fertile—a part of the 60 acres is high meadow land, and constitutes about half of the whole arable land now cleared. The meadow may be used for cereal or grass purposes, and is equally valuable for both. The ballance of the land is well timbered with virgin growth and convenient to a good market. There is also a "Gold Mine" of tested value on the same Tract, to which I propose to attach 30 acres or more of wooded land, which I propose to sell separately. I shall remain in Salisbury for two weeks, where I shall be happy to treat with any person wishing to purchase, after which time I shall intrust the sale of the above to the care of Col. B. Craige my accredited agent. The purchaser can have the benefit of supplying himself with 60 lbls of corn and all of the farming implements &c. necessary to cultivate the farm.

PROSPECTUS.

THE publication of the NORTH CAROLINA PRESBYTERIAN will be resumed in Fayetteville, on Wednesday 2d January next.

Confidently relying upon the hearty suport which we have heretofore received, we shall endeavor to render the paper more attractive, both in appearance and matter, than it has ever been, sparing neither pains nor expense, in the accomplishment of this purpose.

With the passing away of old things, a new spirit of activity, energy and enterprise has been infused into every department of secular thought and business. Why should not the CHURCH, also, partake of this progressive advancement? Why should she, of all the agencies, brought to bear with such tremendous force upon the civilization of the present time, be inefficient, laggard and almost hopeless, in the working out of her own destiny?

To arouse the CHURCH to the importance and necessity of WORK: of unceasing, restless, tireless energy in the service of her Master and Head; this shall be our first and chiefest aim. In this we need assistance. We are not alone, sufficient for these things. Our brethren must help us in every way; contributions from their own stores of thought and study; by zealous co operation in a common cause for the benefit of all; by extending our circulation throughout all our borders, and thus giving us both the means and the opportunity of performing well the work to which we have consecrated all that we have, and all that we hope for on the earth.

To the People of the South!

THE OLD

"EXAMINER" REVIVED!!

The undersigned, having purchased its good will and subscription books, proposes to revive, at an early day, the old Richmond Examiner, of which the late John M. Daniel was editor-in-chief, and the undersigned his constant associate for the entire period of the war.

It is believed that the public will recognize an appropriate and practical idea in this enterprise.—Efforts to revive other papers in the South are announced, and it is certainly neither a visionary nor unworthy endeavour for the literary associates of a gallant spirit that now sleeps in the grave to essay honour to his memory and a service to the public by reviving the old Examiner newspaper, so long the ornament of Southern letters, an example at once of the scholarship and chivalry of Virginia; and perhaps the only school in the South of pure and classick English distinct from the models and redeemed from the innovations of Northern instructors.

The fame of the old Richmond Examiner reached to the most distant parts of the world. The paper was well known in Europe. It was pronounced by a distinguished Northern politician "the best exponent of the civilization of the South." It was a school of literary scholarship for the youth of the South; the glass of Southern chivalry; an example of independence, of courage, of iron spirit in newspaper literature, which its chief illustrated in his own noble and severe life, and defended more than once on the field of honor, when the undersigned stood with in the vindication of the freedom of the press.

Surely there are many people in the South who will unite in an effort to revive a newspaper which was an ornament to its literature and a school for its virtues. The task is an ambitious one. But the undersigned attempts it in no mean or flagging spirit. He has already undertaken to marshal a corps of the old writers for the Examiner; he will be able to reproduce its typographical features, and present to Southern readers a fac simile of their old acquaintance; and he fervently trusts and resolutely pledges every resource of intellect and will to breathe again in this form of material resurrection the same spirit of fearless criticism, chivalrous contest and unhesitating encounter with abuse that animated it of old.

The undersigned owns some pledges of affection in this enterprise. His relations with the late John M. Daniel was close, intimate and affectionate to the day of his death. And it will indeed be a labor and aspiration of love if he can produce some echo from the grave of lamented friendship and rekindle from the ashes of the past and the dead some of the fire that illuminated the familiar pages of our literature.

In the present uncertainty of political questions—the dissappointment of old issues and the imperfect development of the new—it would, of course, be impossible to state with precision the political career of the Examiner. But this may be said with safety; that it will use all its influence in restoring order, tranquility and prosperity to the people; and while aspiring to be brave and independent, it will avoid every scheme of faction and disorganization, devote itself to the works of conservatism, and sustain, at every risk, the present President of the United States as long as he fulfills those noble indications he has already given of planting again the rights of constitutional liberty in the South, setting his face against the Malignants of the North, and thus entitling himself to such common support of conservative men in all parts of the country as will secure the continuation of his wise and patriotic administration.

No pains or expense will be spared to make the Examiner the newspaper of the South. For every department of it the services of the most accomplished and active writers will be secured. Special correspondents will be posted in New York and Washington and other important centres of intelligence in the country. A former active editor of the old Examiner, Edward A. Pollard, will be employed as correspondent from Europe in which country he proposes to write a History of the War, and to form a familiar acquaintance with the politics of Europe, especially in connection with American questions and topicks. This correspondence will constitute a special feature of interest in our paper; it will enliven its columns from week to week with the productions of an animated pen; and it will afford our readers a singularly good opportunity to make themselves acquainted with cotemporary Europe, and to apprehend the growing interest of our foreign relations.

The undersigned was recently the editor of the Richmond Times, but in consequence of a disagreement with the part proprietor of that paper, he has been forced to leave it and appeal to the civil courts for his rights; and he now proposes to himself the nobler task of reviving a paper endeared to the South by many memories of the past, and associated with so much that is admirable in its heroick and literary name in history. He calls upon the old subscribers of the Examiner, from Virginia to Texas, to rally to its support, to renew their subscriptions, and to assist in the revival of a paper which has existed for three-quarters of a century, and which has ever been solicitous to honor truth and virtue, prompt to chastise abuses, and ambitious to defend and adorn the civilization and literature o the South.

Advertisements will be inserted on the same terms as published by the other Richmond papers.

The first number of the Examiner will contain a sketch of the life of the late John M. Daniel, whose name is historical in connection with the Virginia press, and than whom the annals of newspaper literature in America show few more extraordinary men—certainly no greater master of vigor and satire in composition. The first numbers will also contain a full and complete account of the evacuation of Richmond, with all the particulars of the surrender of the city, the evacuation of the troops, the great conflagration, &c., taken from the advance sheets of E. A. Polard's "Fourth Year of the War," now in press. This account will be found intensely interesting; and aside from this consideration, every one should secure and preserve these numbers, as they will be valuable hereafter as affording a true and faithful report of what the South has had hitherto but the imperfect narratives which have been written and published in the Northern press.

The old contributors and correspondents of the Examiner are particularly requested to communicate with the undersigned.

All letters and communications of every character should be addressed to NOTICE.

MODEL SEWING MACHINE.

(From the New York Herald)

Prominent among the mechanical triumphs of this most ingenious age, common honesty compels us to notice the Empire Sewing Machine, commended as justly styled perfection itself. Useful as have been the various sewing machines, from time to time presented to the public, each one of them has been cursed with some radical defect, which detracts from general utility. Warned by the experience of his predecessors, the inventor of the Empire Machine has produced an instrument, combining all the advantages for which others are vaunted, and obviating every defect which can be attributed to them by the most fastidious critic.

The Empire Machine is a marvellous combination of simplicity, economy and perfect workmanship, being durable, free from liability to get out of order, noiseless, and easy of, operation. its mechanical contrivance is such as to secure stability, freedom from accident, and accuracy as to workmanship. By the use of the patented shuttle and straight needle, it makes a stitch, which can neither rip nor ravel, at the same time, it can operate perfectly upon every species of material from leather to cambric. with threads of cotton, linen or silk, from the finest to the coarsest number.

As the Empire Machine is gradually supplanting its more antique rivals, no one in want of a useful instrument of this description, be he or she tailor, coachmaker, dressmaker or seamstress, can do otherwise than secure one of these economical and inimitable machines, suited alike for family and manufacturing purposes. The office of the Empire Manufacturing Co. is at No. 536 Broadway, New York City, where they are now supplying these Empire Machines a prices far below the real value of the instrument.—New York Herald.
